Kitty asks—"How came she here?"
Half with joy and half with fear.
Ritty is our eldest child,
Eight years old, and rather wild—
Wild in manner, but in mind
Wishing all things well defined.
Kitty says—"How came she here,
Father? Tell me, it's so queer.
Yesterday we had no sister. Yesterday we had no sister, Else I'm sure I should have missed her When I went to bed last night, And this morning hailed her sight With a new and strange delight. for, indeed it passes all To have a sister not so tall As my doll; and with blue eyes; And—I do declare—it cries! Last night I did'ut see her father; Or, I'm sure I had much rather Staid at home, still as a mouse, Than played all day at grandma's house,
She is so pretty, and so tiny;
And what makes her face so shiny?
Will it always be like that? Will it always be like that?
Will she swell up, plump and fat,
Like my doll; or tall,
Like my wax ene? Tell me all—
All about her, papa, dear,
For I do so long to hear
Where she came from and what brought herYours and mama's bran new daughter,"

A daughter-another daughter! And the question is ... What brought her? Spence, our boy, but three years old, Says the nurse did-and is bold In defiance of them both-Since to yield his place he's loth, And pouting, feels his nose's point When I declare tis out of joint But, though the childish explanation Be food enough for child's vexation, We older folks must better find To feed the hunger of the mind. To us, of larger issues preaching, This link of life eternal reaching, From earth to heaven this new-born soul Come fresh from wherever roll Its countless years through yonder heaven, Hath deeper cause for thinking given.

A daughter! And what brought her? No matter what; she comes to bring A blessing in her life's young spring. "No matter, darling! she is here-Our daughter, sister, baby dear. Open your hearts and let her enter, Open them wide, for God hath sent her! HOLIST Rems. BORR

HEARENS WEIGHED .- A celebrated parson lately preached a rather long sermon from the text-"Thou art weighed and found wanting." After the congregation had listened about an hour, some began to get weary and went out; others soon followed, greatly to the annoyance of the minister.

Another person was about to retire, whereupon the parson stopped in his sermon and said: "That is right, gentlemen; as fast as you are weighed, pass out." He continued his sermon at some length after that, but no one disturbed him by leaving.

GENTLEMAN AND NO GENTLEMAN .-- The vicar of Sheffield, the Rev. Dr. Sutton, once said to the late Mr. Peech, a veterinary surgeon: "Mr. Peech, how is it you have not called upon me for your account?" "Oh," said Mr. Peech, "I never asked a gentle man for money. "Indeed," said the vicar "then how do you get on if he don't pay?"
"Why," replied Mr. Peech, "after a certain time I conclude that he is not a gentleman, and then I ask him!"
